

WHAT KNOW YOU OF HUNGER?

Where Your Money Goes 1922-1923 Budget

The funds raised by the appeal to the general public will be devoted to the following purposes:

CORPS MAINTENANCE AND RELIEF	$10,500
<small>This money maintains the local corps—street meetings, indoor meetings, jail meetings, upkeep of Citadel, corps officers' quarters and all incidental expenses—and is used to help extend relief for sickness and distress. It is in addition to ordinary collections.</small>
HOME SERVICE	1,000
<small>For extension of Salvation Army help into rural districts and educational work among the school children.</small>
RESCUE HOME MAINTENANCE	1,000
<small>Tulsa's proportionate share of upkeep of this wonderful institution that has this year received several of our Tulsa girls and cared for them through their troubles.</small>
CHILDREN'S HOME MAINTENANCE	400
DISABLED OFFICERS' FUND	200
<small>A fund set aside for the maintenance of old or disabled officers who have spent their life and strength in the service without a chance to accumulate money for old age.</small>
STATE FUND	1,000
<small>Tulsa's share of the upkeep of the State headquarters and the many branches of services given by that office for the benefit of the Tulsa corps.</small>
TRAINING COLLEGE MAINTENANCE	200
<small>For the upkeep of the college in Chicago where every Salvationist must undergo a severe course of training before being appointed an officer.</small>
TERRITORIAL MAINTENANCE	200
<small>Is the cost to Tulsa of the oversight given to us from Chicago and New York, and upon which we rely for the efficient conduct of Salvation Army activity throughout the United States.</small>
YOUNG WOMEN'S BOARDING HOME	6,200
<small>The Tulsa Young Women's Boarding Home still owes three notes of $5,000 each and interest. It is to take up the note due in January and the interest then due on the total indebtedness.</small>
TOTAL	$20,700

—You, Whose Income Assures You of Good Food, Warm Clothing and Shelter

As you slip on your gloves and overcoat and speed off in your car to a warm, cozy home to an appetizing dinner, do you realize that only a few blocks away many unfortunates live, struggling against grim odds to keep the wolf from the door and keep warm?

There are the hungry, the sick, the jobless, the fallen—right here in Tulsa. They walk the streets and huddle in shacks and tents as the world passes by, unaware of their wretchedness and misery.

Hungry widows in pitiable self-sacrifice, young girls who are selling their very souls for food, orphans, deserted wives—all fighting for existence against great odds.

If you could but have been with the writer at the Salvation Army Citadel for the short period of an hour, last Thursday morning, and saw the unfortunates that applied for aid, and heard their pitiful appeal, you would dig deep into your pocket when you make your contribution to the Salvation Army.

An old crippled man drove up in front of the Citadel in a rickety covered wagon, drawn by a bony horse. He had traveled some distance, and had a journey of 70 miles before him—and no food or money.

Then a deserted wife, with two small children, a boy age 2 and a baby age 18 months, applied for help. She had no home, no job, no money.

An old woman, about 65 years of age, came in for her weekly contribution. She is all alone in the world and lives in a tent, a few blocks from the Citadel. The Salvation Army is her only friend.

Last August, the Tulsa police picked up a slender, ragged wisp of a girl for vagrancy. She was only 16 years of age—and worst of all, was soon to become a mother.

Ruth (we will call her) has been cast upon the world since a mere child—her father and mother have been dead for many years. After hearing her story, the Salvation Army took her under its protecting wing, fed and clothed her, and sent her to the Salvation Army Maternity and Rescue Home, where she and her tiny baby-to-be will receive the kindest of care.

This letter was received by Mrs. Johnson, from her last week: "I am getting along fine. I like my new home real well. There are quite a few girls here, so I do not get lonesome, but I am rather homesick. We have prayer meetings every Sunday, and we have plenty of privileges. With love,

"RUTH."

But it's money that is needed, not tears and words of sympathy. The Salvation Army needs money—NOT FOR THEMSELVES—but to relieve the suffering of Tulsa's unfortunates. Don't say you "can't afford it." There is not a man or woman employed in Tulsa, who can't afford to give something.

Meet the team workers with a hearty smile—and a ready check, when they call on you this week. Be generous—GIVE!
